

Rambazamba through the inexhaustible nature of rhythm!

It's Human Jazzhop Palim - organic live pogo with modern technical hip-hop and house roots! "Life is a Construction-Site" is the name of a stunning German movie. The life of "Feindrehstar", a band of eight from Jena/Thuringia, runs on stage - and were it to be screened "The stage is their construction-site" could be its title. After all, once the eight gentlemen take the podium, the audience is about to be taken away on an acoustic journey - just like a good movie takes its audience to places they have never been before. Yet, no one is expected to sit around and wait for the story to end - the performance is set to move. This acoustic movie is infectious - rattling and dazzling, smoothing and soothing its audience on its feet, calling for laughs and tears - whatever one's disposition might be. However, one thing is for sure, no one is going to leave the place without a sweat-soaked shirt and a big fat smiling face - provided that he or she has dismissed those quick-at-hand genre-drawers that cut to size whatever they can't fit. Feindrehstar stand for live club music. Playing themselves into what might be called an acoustic trance, they distill the essences of Hip-Hop-Jazz-House-Funk-Worldmusic, in order to stir and indeed satisfy their audience's innermost cravings.

Inside the German music-scene, Feindrehstar have created their own genre: "Krautclub"! By now, the band's Live-feel is a session-vehicle, that has turned such unlike siblings as NuJazz/Broken Beat, Techno and House into a sizzling new musical brand. "It's alright as long as it works!" seems to be the musical credo! This is Madness live and in color, modern musical self-consciousness on display!

What's more: Feindrehstar has played countless gigs on German and European stages and has single-handedly released two 7" Singles and two 7 track CDs on their home label "Human Instinct". Due to the vigilance of Jazzanova's sonarkollektiv open-heads, Feindrehstar released in August 2006 her first EP "Danctrack" on Sonar Kollektiv. So, please welcome to the stage - tune up your ears - get ready for rambazamba - there they go!!! Feindrehstar are the award recipient of creole-world music from middle Germany 2008!
